RUBRIC

“A rubric is a printed set of guidelines that distinguishes performances or products of different quality. A rubric has descriptors that define what to look for at each level of performance. Rubrics also often have indicators providing specific examples or tell-tale signs of things to look for in work.”

The word rubric derives from the Latin word for red. Long ago, a rubric was a set of instructions for a law or liturgical services, typically written in red. Thus, a rubric instructs people on how to “lawfully” judge a performance.

Not only does a good rubric provide a consistent and reliable means for assessing performance, it also provides the student with a clear and written explanation of the instructor’s expectations of a performance.

High interest and excitement leads the student to an investigation that reaches beyond requirements. All notes, assignments, tests, workplace records and labs required are completed on time, are very well organized and questions are answered accurately. The student has used more resources than required and demonstrates new knowledge both orally and in written work and uses this knowledge in his/her assignments and oral participation. New knowledge is evident when student shows connections between classroom and work place relationships. Student notes, tests, labs, work place records, CTSO participation, debates and assignments are clearly organized, carefully done, and often go beyond teacher expectations. All tests are beyond the standard level of achievement between 80% to 89%.	Student meets assignment expectations. The student demonstrates new knowledge learned in oral participation and or written tasks. The work is well organized and complete. The student understood the assignments. He/she used the resources required and organized information in all notes, assignments, tests,work place records, debates and labs. All notes, assignments and labs are complete, carefully done and the student meets just above the minimum requirements and expectations. All tests, work place records, CTSO participation, assignments and labs meet the standard level of achievement between 70% to 79%.	Student knowledge of the topic is understood, but at minimum level of competency. The assignments, notes and labs are occasionally incomplete and could be organized better. Some resources have been used, but it is not clear what the student understood. Some of the information included by the student was not important to the topic. Student does most of what is required, but nothing more. Some of the work may not be finished. Tasks are not carefully done and the information from the resources is not used. Tests, labs, notes, CTSO participation, and workbased learning results are at a level of achievement between 60% to 69%.	Student knowledge of the subject is not shown. Steps through the process were not followed. Notes, tests, assignments, workbased learning and labs lack neatness, organization, detail and evidence of new knowledge. Work does not meet requirements. Parts are missing. Participation is weak, or student is often not participating. Labs, tests, CTSO participation, and assignments are poorly done and fall well behind the standard level of achievement. Overall, the student has failed to grasp new concepts covered in the competency. The level of achievement is below 60%.

Definition of Rubric:

"A rubric is a printed set of guidelines that distinguishes performances or products of different quality. A rubric has descriptors that define what to look for at each level of performance. Rubrics also often have indicators providing specific examples or tell-tale signs of things to look for in work."

The word rubric derives from the Latin word for red. Long ago, a rubric was the set of instructions for a law or liturgical service, typically written in red. Thus, a rubric instructs people on how to "lawfully" judge a performance. A good rubric allows valid and reliable--criterion-referenced--discrimination of performance.
